§ 138-160 Custody of Animals Not Part of a Farm Operation

A. Keeping of agricultural animals for personal use and not part of a farm operation as defined in this local law shall require a permit from the building department, shall be allowed in any district only where the acreage requirements pursuant to the Table in this Section can be met, and shall meet the following requirements:

- (1) Locate all structures, barns, manure storage areas, ponds, equipment sheds, silos, and pastures to the rear yard of the property.
- (2) Have fencing to fully enclose the area to be used for agricultural animals. All livestock shall be fenced.
- (3) Ensure that all animals are kept away from any wetland, stream, floodplain, vernal pool, or other water body on the parcel. No animal shall have direct access to a wetland regulated by the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation or the US Army Corps of Engineers, impoundment, stream, spring, or well on the lot on which the livestock is 212 located.
- (4) Have in place methods to remove or manage manure waste from animals.
- (5) Have adequate acreage for proper care and feeding of animals as per the table below:

Rabbits	No minimum acreage requirements if rabbits are kept in hutches. Maximum 6 rabbits.
Poultry	2 acres for 12 birds or less, one acre per 13 to 20 birds (chickens, pheasants, ducks, turkeys, geese, guinea fowl). No roosters, peacocks or other fowl permitted.
Livestock	1 animal per 2 acres.
Sheep/Goats	Maximum 1 adult animal per 2 acres.
Alpacas/Llamas	Maximum 1 llamas and adult alpacas per 2 acres.
Pigs-Finishing/Market Hogs	Maximum 1 head per 2 acres.
Cattle	1 adult animal per 2 acres.
Horses	1 adult animal per 2 acres.
Miniature Equine:	Maximum 2 adult animals per 2 acres.

- (6) Setbacks shall ensure that noise or odors impacts on adjacent properties from the agricultural operation are minimized. There shall be a minimum fifty (50) foot buffer between all buildings and structures used to store feed or other materials or manure from adjacent properties to minimize impacts of noise or odor. Such buffers may consist of plant screening, woodlands, vegetated berms, fences, or natural topographic features. A minimum of one hundred (100) feet shall be provided between any area or structure used for the storage of animal wastes and wetlands and waterways.
- (7) No roosters, peacock or other fowl shall be allowed.
